Israel Diamond exchange faces crisis as exports plummet in 2024

TEL AVIV

Former exchange president Boaz Moldawsky previously noted that the Israeli diamond market was “completely paralyzed” immediately following the outbreak of war, although it eventually resumed normal operations. However, the continuation of the conflict has sowed inhibition among people who were planning for a trip to Israel, leading to the cancellation of key events such as the annual International Diamond Week

Malabar Gold & Diamonds launches 10% advance offer for festive season in Qatar

DOHA

The offer is designed to protect customers from fluctuations in gold prices, making it a timely solution as many prepare for jewellery purchases in the lead-up to the holidays. Customers can lock in the prevailing gold rate until October 29 by making a minimal advance payment. If gold prices rise, they benefit from the locked rate; if prices fall, they can take advantage of the lower rate

UAE shoppers embrace diamond price protection as gold hits record highs

DUBAI

Currently, jewellers offering price protection require customers to return diamond pieces bought from their stores, although some may accept trade-ins from other retailers, albeit with a longer exchange process. While this price protection scheme is still limited to a few retailers, its popularity is growing as customers demand such assurances for diamond purchases
